

3T Medical Systems completes acquisition of ConstaVac™ CBCII Product Line from Stryker Corporation

April 24th, 2018, Canton, MI, USA

3T Medical Systems is pleased to announce its acquisition of the ConstaVac™ CBCII Product Line from Stryker Corporation. The transaction significantly expands 3T Medical's solutions portfolio and client base in the U.S. and International hospitals and health systems.

ConstaVac™ CBCII is one of the leading systems in the US and internationally for collecting and reinfusing a patient's own blood during orthopedic and other operations. It is a closed system used post-operatively to collect and filter blood. It provides simplicity and an economically disposable system for blood reinfusion.

"Our highest priority is to successfully meet our customers complex needs both today and in the future," said 3T Medical's Chief Executive Officer, Jack J. Kelley. "It's critical that healthcare organizations deliver the best care possible, and we expect this transaction will enable 3T Medical to deliver a high quality, high performing blood management solution, which will help clinicians and hospitals achieve our shared mission."

3T Medical Systems is in the process of transferring the manufacturing process to Southeast Michigan.
